

An Ample Fund of Pleasure and Health may be derived from an ocean voyage and foreign travel. But before one gets one's "sea legs" on, as the sailor says, the abominable qualms, begotten of sea-sickness, have usually to be gotten over. Delicate people suffer, of course, more than the robust from this ailment, but few sea-travelers escape it. Against the frightful nausea it produces, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is a reliable defense, and is so esteemed by tourists, commercial travelers, yachtsmen and mariners. An ailment skin to sea-sickness often afflicts land travelers with weak stomachs. This is often brought on by the jarring of a railway train. Disquietude in the gastric region from this cause is always remedied by the Bitters, which also prevents and cures chills and fever, rheumatism, nervous and kidney trouble, constipation and biliousness.

Possibilities of Trade.
United States Consul Lastowski, at Callao, Peru, who has been concerning himself with the problem of bettering the trade relations between the United States and the 9,000,000 people on the west coast of South America, ascribes to inadequate means of transportation the present small trade relations, and gives some remarkable figures to prove how great is the discrimination in favor of Europe and against the United States under the present system.

THE United States can turn out 300,000,000 pounds of copper yearly.

Fall Medicine

Is fully as important and as beneficial as Spring Medicine, for at this season there is great danger to health in the varying temperature, cold storms, malarial germs, and the prevalence of fevers and other serious diseases. All these may be avoided if the blood is kept pure, the digestion good, and the bodily health vigorous, by taking Hood's Sarsaparilla. "My little boy, fourteen years old, had a terrible scrofula blemish on his neck. A friend of mine said Hood's Sarsaparilla cured his little boy, so I procured a bottle of the medicine, and the result has been that the blemish has left his neck. It was so near the throat that he could not have stood it much longer without relief." Mrs. I. A. FORD, 324 Thierdike St., Lowell, Mass.

Hood's Pills are prompt and efficient.

KNOWLEDGE

Brings comfort and improvement and tends to personal enjoyment when rightly used. The many who live better than others and enjoy life more, with less expenditure, by more promptly adapting the world's best products to the needs of physical being, will attest the value to health of the pure liquid laxative principles embraced in the remedy, Syrup of Figs.

Its excellence is due to its presenting in the form most acceptable and pleasant to the taste, the refreshing and truly beneficial properties of a perfect laxative; effectually cleansing the system, dispelling colds, headaches and fevers and permanently curing constipation. It has given satisfaction to millions and met with the approval of the medical profession, because it acts on the kidneys, liver and bowels without weakening them and it is perfectly free from every objectionable substance.

Syrup of Figs is for sale by all druggists in 50c and $1 bottles, but it is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, whose name is printed on every package, also the name, Syrup of Figs, and being well informed, you will not accept any substitute if offered.

FORGOT HIS ORDERS.

CARELESS ENGINEER CAUSES A WRECK IN LOUISIANA.

Falls to Stop at a Crossing and His Train Crashes Into a Coach Filled with Excursionists—Took to the Swamps to Avoid Summary Punishment.

Nineteen Are Hurt.
Engineer Simpson of the East Louisiana Railroad is responsible for a frightful accident that occurred at the crossing of the Louisville and Nashville and the Northeastern roads, two miles from New Orleans; an accident that will result in at least one fatality, while nearly a score of passengers on the Louisville and Nashville railroad received severe injuries.

The Louisville and Nashville "across the lake" excursion train, consisting of eight coaches, well loaded with pleasure-seekers, a large proportion of them being women and children, pulled out on time. As the train approached the crossing of the Northeastern tracks Engineer Hanley brought his train to a stop and whistled as the law requires. He then gave the signal to go ahead and proceeded across the tracks of the Northeastern.

The East Louisiana train, carrying excursionists to points in St. Tammany parish, was booming along its tracks and, with a wild shriek from its whistle for "down brakes," it crashed into the sixth coach of the Louisville & Nashville train. The collision threw a crowded coach completely into the ditch, while the attacking engine was derailed and buried its nose several feet in the soft mud. Passengers on the last Louisiana train were uninjured except for the shock of collision. Not so with the coast excursion, however. Just before the engine struck the coach several of the passengers saw it coming and a panic ensued. There was a wild rush to escape from the doomed coach, but before one of the passengers could reach either platform the approaching engine had struck, and the coach, with its living freight, was hurled from the track into the ditch. Women and children shrieked in their terror, while men fought their way blindly for some escape from the coach.

Seats were torn up and hurled in every direction by the force of the collision, and after the first wild panic had subsided there were heard piteous moans from different quarters of the wreck, telling of painful injuries. The greatest indignation and anger prevailed among the witnesses of the collision against Engineer Simpson, who had ruthlessly disregarded the law requiring him to stop and had caused the frightful wreck. Inquiry developed the fact that Simpson had escaped to the swamp.

VERY NEAR TO DEATH.

Brilliant Career of Comedian Scanlan Is About to Close.

It is believed that W. J. Scanlan, the Irish comedian, whose brilliant career on the stage was prematurely ended by hereditary insanity, is very near death. The Irish favorite has had a strangely romantic life. Many will be surprised to know that when a boy, he was a boot-black in New York. He gained many patrons by amusing them with imitations and sayings of a humorous nature, and often times would have as enthusiastic and admiring an audience as he ever had in the days that followed. Finally it dawned on one of his more influential auditors that this youth was an embryo character actor, and he was taken to an uptown resort to do funny things for the pleasure-seekers. He scored a great success and an interested and wealthy lady furnished money to train him for the profession to which he was so admirably adapted, and in which he has amassed a fortune now in the possession of the woman who proved his first real friend.

FEW ANIMALS BURNED.

Most of Them Escaped Before the Flames Overtook Them.

Immense numbers of wild animals and game have been driven by the late Western fires from the burned districts to the vicinity of the towns and when the hunting season opens it is believed it will be the most profitable ever seen. A gentleman living in the burned region declares that there have been very few wild animals burned, based on his statement on knowledge of the habits of deer, elk, moose and bear. He says that over a week before the fire broke out there was a decided movement on the part of all sorts of big game. He saw half a dozen black bear in one morning, all trotting along in the same methodical sort of way. Deer were all moving out, he says, and a dozen could be seen to cross the head of the lake in an hour if a close watch was kept.

TO BAR THE UNWORTHY.

Strong Movement Started in Boston to Restrict Immigration.

The restriction of immigration is a subject that has been more or less aimlessly discussed for many years; but now at length a movement has been started that will take practical steps to remedy whatever defects exist in the system. The new organization is named the Immigration Restriction League. Its object is to advocate and work for the further judicious restriction of immigration. It will issue documents and circulars in all the States, and in every way try to stir up public opinion to the necessity of some action. The league will by no means advocate the exclusion of immigrants, either of laborers or other persons of such character and standard as fit them to become citizens. It will endeavor to be a practical working body, aiming to place before the people all facts showing the need of further regulation and restriction, in the hope of bringing about some reform in the present system, of whatever nature it may be. It is significant that foreign born citizens are likewise interesting themselves in the movement, and the league's membership includes many prominent German-Americans and Irish-Americans. The labor organizations, led by Samuel Gompers, are preparing to second the new organization's propaganda, as it is directly in the line of the contract labor law and other legislation in which they are concerned.

The League is strictly non-partisan and non-political. The central headquarters are in Boston, and the Chairman of the Executive Committee is Robert D. Ward. It proposes three remedies. It would insist that each foreigner desirous of settling here should pay a money tax, should have certain educational qualifications, and should at the port of embarkation have secured a consular certificate, attesting his fitness to become a citizen of the republic. From carefully prepared statistics it is evident that we are getting the undesirable emigrants, while South America, Australia and even Africa are attracting those whose labors are especially desirable in the upbuilding of new countries. Such a condition of affairs the league hopes to reverse, and with such an object in mind it will have a suitable measure introduced into the next Congress.

The league has collected valuable statistics illustrating the deteriorating process of immigration during the past twenty-five years. Here are some figures that are instructive:

Year.	Immigrants from Austria-Hungary, Italy, Poland and Russia.	Immigrants from United Kingdom, France, Germany and Scandinavia.
1863.	3,515	292,983
1869.	36,812	240,170
1875.	71,734	332,768
1881.	114,781	361,749
1887.	134,871	292,039
1893.	229,030	312,502
1899.	198,149	312,169
1904.	120,587	111,953

The decrease in 1893 and 1894 of the number of immigrants coming to our shores is attributed to cholera in 1893 and to the panic for 1894. It will be seen from the above that while the immigrants from Austria-Hungary, Poland, Italy and Russia were about one one-hundredth of the number from the United Kingdom, France, Germany and Scandinavia in 1863, in 1890 they were one-tenth and in 1894 nearly equal to it. There are now 10,000,000 persons of foreign birth in the United States, and over 21,000,000 of foreign birth or parentage.

Statistics have also been prepared showing that 41 per cent. of our foreign born population are settled in cities, and that the same class constitutes one-third of the insane of the nation. Literature containing facts like these will be presented to the people, so that a sturdy sentiment shall be created in favor of the proposed changes.

Singular Wound.

Mr. Selous, author of "Travel and Adventure in Southeast Africa," was on horseback in pursuit of an eland. He turned to look behind him, and as he brought his head round again received a fearful blow in the right eye from the tip of a dead branch. He bled freely, and as he says, felt "pretty sick," but he could still see the splendid bull trotting before him, some two hundred yards in advance on the other side of the river. The sight kept up his spirits. He got his horse across the river and kept on after the bull. "I felt very sick," he repeats, "but as our camp was only two miles off, and the eland was going straight to it, I determined to try to get him."

The eland kept on steadily until he was within five hundred yards of the camp. Then apparently he wined something, and stopped. Mr. Selous felt that he should soon faint, so looking at the eland with his left eye, he raised his rifle and sent a bullet through its lungs. Then he remounted and galloped into camp.

Some of the men went out after the eland, and the others attended to Mr. Selous. He soon became unconscious, and with his symptoms were so alarming that boys were sent after a doctor who was known to be shooting rhinoceros a day's journey away. He left his sport, and under his skillful ministrations Mr. Selous' wound healed, though it was more than a month before he could see well with his right eye. Even then the wound opened again from time to time.

The next year Mr. Selous returned to England, and one morning while walking down Bond Street, London, was seized with a fit of coughing. "You have taken cold," said a friend who was with him. Mr. Selous said no, and presently he felt something coming down one of the ducts into the back of his mouth. He spat it out into his hand, and it proved to be a piece of hard African wood, the end of the cry branch which, eight months before, had struck him in the eye on the bank of the Lundazi River, in Mashonaland. It was not a splinter, but a solid, hard wood, three-quarters of an inch long and of considerable thickness.
